About
Named in honor of co-founder Jason Hennessey’s son JJ who lives with epilepsy, this $1,000 scholarship will be awarded to one high-achieving student with epilepsy. Having seen firsthand the challenges that epilepsy brings, we are eager to bestow this first annual scholarship. We recognize that epilepsy in all of its forms presents serious but surmountable obstacles at any stage of life, but particularly for college or university students seeking to complete their studies and begin a career.

We believe strongly in creating a world where higher education is accessible to everyone and where conditions like epilepsy are not a barrier to success. We encourage all eligible students to apply and look forward to awarding this scholarship.

- You are currently enrolled in or have been accepted to an accredited college or university, and you have been diagnosed with epilepsy (any form). Proof of diagnosis may be required with all applications.
